

Pave Your Path to Career Success

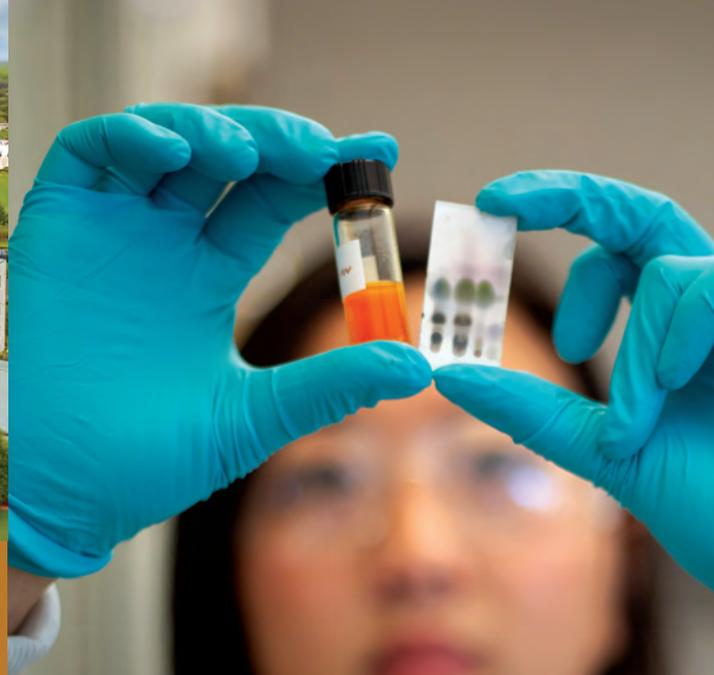

Scripps Research's Career and Postdoctoral Services Office builds on the training graduate students and postdoctoral scholars receive in the laboratory by promoting a culture of informed, proactive, and strategic career planning.

The office provides personalized one-on-one career counseling, connections to opportunities, and dozens of programs each year to prepare the institute's trainees for a range of professions.

Through regular collaborations with engaged faculty, campus networks, and other local research institutions, the office fosters a unique and supportive training environment for all Scripps Research graduate students and postdoctoral scholars on both the California and Florida campuses.
